

What makes a great president?

- Time
- Personality
- Vision
- “Power to Persuade”

How much power
should the president have?

CONGRESS

GIMME A SIZE LARGER.

- “I declined to adopt the view that was imperatively necessary for the Nation could not be done by the President unless he could find some specific authorization to do it. My belief was that it was not only [a President's] right, but his duty to do anything that the needs of the Nation demanded unless such action was forbidden by the Constitution or by the laws... I did not usurp power, but I did greatly broaden the use of executive power. In other words, I acted for the public welfare...unless prevented by direct constitutional or legislative prohibition.”

-Theodore Roosevelt, an autobiography, 1913 vs.

- “The true view of the Executive function is, as I conceive it, that the President can exercise no power which cannot be fairly and reasonably traced to some specific grant or power or justly implied and included within such express grant.... Such specific grant must be either in the Federal Constitution or in an act of Congress passed in pursuance thereof. There is no undefined residuum of power which he can exercise because it seems to him to be in the public interest.”

-President William Howard Taft, 1916

Legislative Powers?

- He shall from time to time give to the Congress Information of the State of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient
 - Signs bills into law or vetoes

 - He shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers....

FOREIGN POLICY

WHAT THE MOST POWERFUL MAN IN THE WORLD CAN'T ACCOMPLISH

Do you think Bush expected 9/11? No. Did Clinton expect Bosnia? No. Man makes his plans; God has his own. . . . Remember Bush's second debate with Gore where he campaigned against nation building? Oh, well. . . . The tension between the modesty of knowing what's possible and what isn't, and the desire and ability to do good because you're president of the United States, that challenge is one of the most profound things. . . . Don't shortchange the opportunity to make a difference, but understand how hard it is. . . . You've got to keep both notions in your head at the same time. And that's hard. That's the description for the man in the Oval Office.

- Daniel Fried of the State Department

Military

The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States;

BUT . . .

- War Powers Act: must report to Congress within 48 hours of sending troops. He has sixty days to keep them there without permission from Congress
 - Who pays?????

Pardons

he shall have Power to Grant
Reprieves and Pardons for Offenses against the United States, except in Cases of Impeachment.

Bennett, the cartoonist whose work has won him

Removal from Office

The President, Vice President and all Civil Officers of the United States, shall be removed from Office on Impeachment for, and Conviction of, Treason, Bribery, or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors.

YOU SURE ABOUT THIS?

NO DRAMA OBAMA

THAT 3 A.M.
CALL

WHAT'S UP NOW, SECRETARY
CLINTON? DO YOU KNOW WHAT TIME IT IS?

HEY! I JUST HAD A BUNCH OF IDEAS FOR MY NEW FOREIGN POLICY!

THOSE AREN'T YOUR IDEAS! THOSE ARE MY IDEAS!

SHUT UP, BILL!

NOBODY ASKED YOU!

SHUT UP?
YOU SHUT UP!
